Appendix No. 4

Written in the early 1930's

History of the Daughdrill Family as given to me by Aunt Bettie (Elizabeth Daughdrill).

The Daughdrills are one of the pioneer families of Alabama.

James Daughdrill, born May 14, 1779.

Celia Turner, born April 24, 1779.

Celia was the daughter of William Turner who died Dec. 20, 1807. All of these living in Barnwell District, South Carolina, James Daughdrill and Celia Turner married, Feb. 20, 1803.

James Daughdrill was the son of _____ Daughdrill, who with a brother came from Ireland, fought in the Revolutionary War and was given a "land grant" on the Tennessee River, known then as the big bend of the Tennessee River, James inheriting this land from his father, a Revolutionary soldier, started there to take possession in 1808 with his wife Celia (Turner) Daughdrill and three small children - Ann, John, and William Turner. A brother, John Daughdrill, affectionately known as "Uncle Jackie", with them, their way led by Indian trails, passing through Alabama, then only an Indian territory. The Indians became so threatening they stopped near Old Fort Mims.

They returned to Alabama, this time (1832) settling near Old Spring Hill, entering government land, deeds signed by Martin Van Buren, then President of the U.S. Here near Old Spring Hill they lived and died - substantial citizens, good Christians. James Daughdrill, Jr. was a soldier in the Civil War.

"Jackie", having lost his heart to a cousin, Miss Winnie Harrell, in S.C. went back there to claim her; and brought her as a bride to his new home in Mississippi. To them were born two sons - James Harrell Daughdrill and Lott Daughdrill. James married Elizabeth Rawls, went to Mobile, accumulated quite a nice little fortune, had a large family of children - John, James Harrell, Jr., Cholie, Bama, Mamie, Julia, and Henry.

Lott Daughdrill grew up and went to Texas. I know very little of his family. James and Jackie had one sitter, "Nancy Daughdrill", who married a Mr. Robinson; they had no children. Lived and died near their brothers, James and John on Leaf River.

FOREWARD

This history of the Daughdrill family was prepared from data accumulated over a period from 1932 to 1950 from the Department of Archives, N.C., Department of Archives, Washington, D.C., Court House records at the county seat of Bertie County, N.C., Barnwell County, S.C. and other places. Grateful acknowledgement is made to the assistance of Mary Winifred White of 2601 Summerville Road, Phenix, Ala., wife of Rev. J.R. Graves White, in furnishing certain information from time to time and to my wife and other members of the family who may have supplied data.

Daughdrill (Dodrill) Family

The earliest available records of the Dodrill Family are those on file in the Archives of the Historical Commission of the State of North Carolina which show that James Dodrill and John Dodrill were on the tax list of the state in 1771 and that they resided in and paid taxes in Bertie County, N.C. No records were found of any other members of the family except these two brothers. Family tradition has it that they came from Ireland, and were descendants of Count Jean LeAughdrill, a Frenchman who migrated to Ireland. There is a marriage band on file in the Archives of N.C. showing that John Dodrill and his wife, by a deed dated April 23, 1791, conveyed a tract of land in Bertie county, N.C. to John Drew for 250 pounds of State of Virginia money. No record was found of the John Dodrill family after that date in N.C. It is believed that they moved to Va. which later became a part of West Va. Some of the descendants now live in West Va., some in Nebraska, and some in California.

James Dodrill as shown on page 1046 of N.C. state records, enlisted in the Continental Forces on July 20, 1778 under Colonel Abraham Shepard as a private in the 10th Regiment. He was promoted to Corporal October 3, 1778. A few days before his enlistment, he conveyed his whole estate to his brother John on June 2, 1778 in consideration of his good will and affection. See Bertie County, N.C. Book M., page 366. Copy of deed is attached. Appendix No 1.

After the Revolutionary War, James Dodrill settled in Barnwell District, S.C. where he and his wife evidently died. He died in 1806 as evidenced by old family Bible records, copy attached, appendix No. 3. He had two sons, James and John. the former was born May 14, 1779. John was younger. The exact date of his birth is unknown. The family changed the spelling of its name from Dodrill to Daughdrill sometime between the Revolutionary War and 1807. A record of real estate transfers was found in the records of Barnwell District, S.C. in the names of James and John Daughdrill in 1807. For many years thereafter branches of the family in Mississippi pronounced their name as if it were spelled "Dodrill". Family tradition has it that the name was changed from Dodrill to Daughdrill for the reason that the original name was DeAughdrill. This fact comes from disconnected branches of its family unknown to each other now living in Louisiana and Mississippi. A separate census record of the Dodrill or Daughdrill family was not made in North or South Carolina, either in 1790, the first census year or in 1800, the second census year. they evidently lived with another family at the time. The records available would indicate that they may have lived with the Zachariah Harrell family who had moved from N.C. to the Barnwell District of S.C. This family subsequently moved to Greene County, Mississippi.

In 1807, through a resolution of a Committee on Western Lands of the State of North Carolina, which lands later became a part of the State of Tennessee, the State of North Carolina issued to the heirs of James Dodrill, the Revolutionary Soldier, a land warrant No. 152, dated December 16, 1807 for 1000 acres of land for the services of James Dodrill as a soldier in the Continental line of the State of North Carolina. This warrant was issued through a petition of David Collins, heir at law of James Dodrill. A certificate is on file in the state records from Amos Thomas of Trenton in Bertie County, N.C. certifying that Wm. Skinner, Thomas Skinner and James Dodrill were soldiers with him at Trenton. Records could not be obtained to show the family connection between David Collins and James Dodrill.

Under the State of Tennessee Grant No. 3754 only 100 of the 1000 acres of land covered by warrant 152 were ever claimed by the Dodrill heirs. the 100 acres were conveyed to Willis Norsworthy, Assigned of the heirs of James Dodrill on February 20th, 1812, by Willie Blount, Governor of Tennessee. See book G, page 96, General Grants. This land is located in what is known as the "Big Bend" of the Tennessee River in Humphreys County, Tennessee. Copy of the conveyance to Willis Norsworthy is attached, appendix No. 2.

Daughdrill Family History

James Daughdrill, born May 14, 1779, married Sealy Turner on February 20, 1803 in Barnwell County, S.C. She was a daughter of William Turner who came to Barnwell County from Charleston, S.C. He died on December 20, 1807. Sealy was the Executrix of his estate in inventory of the estate was made by Noel Turner and is of record in Barnwell, S.C. Noel Turner moved to the Ala. territory near Ft. Mims about that time and in 1811 moved to Greene County, Miss. on the Leaf River. He had a Revolutionary War record.

In 1808, James Daughdrill, accompanied by his wife and three small children and his brother John, left Barnwell District, S.C. to go to Tennessee to take possession of a grant of land located in the "Big Bend" of the Tennessee River which is referred to above. In attempting to make this trip, they had to follow Indian trails through the Alabama Territory. Due to the hostility of the Indians along their proposed route through the Alabama Territory, they were compelled abandon the journey to Tennessee and then settled near Old Fort Mims in the Alabama Territory. Rumors of an attack to be made by the Indians, which eventually culminated in the Massacre at Fort Mims, caused the Daughdrills to move on into the Mississippi Territory. The settled about 1811 in what is now known as Green County, with the State Line and the Post Office. They were imbued with the same kind of pioneer spirit that made the United States what it is today. There were many difficulties that had to be overcome in an underdeveloped country. Adequate transportation was an outstanding problem. They were quite patriotic and both James and John enlisted in the War of 1812 and fought with General Jackson at New Orleans. The records available show that they served in Lt. Colonel Nixon's regiment of the Mississippi Militia. From the records available, it appears that they made their greatest industrial advancement in the turpentine and lumber business with transportation on the Leaf and Pascagoula Rivers. They were also engaged in farming and cattle raising. Like all other parts of the south, the Daughdrill family were seriously retarded in their business and cultural development by the War Between the States. The following is a record of some of the descendants of the two Daughdrill brothers.

1. James Daughdrill (No. 1 of Greene County Mississippi)

Born May 14, 1779. Died some time prior to 1830 in Greene County Mississippi. Married Sealy Turner, daughter of William Turner in S.C. in 1803. She was born in S.C. on April 24, 1799 - died February 10, 1868 at or near Old Spring Hill in Marengo County, Ala. She moved their from Mississippi, after her husband's death, with all of her children, except William Turner Daughdrill and his sister, Martha at or about 1832, settling on government lands conveyed through deeds signed by Martin Van Buren, then President of the United States.

The descendants of James Daughdrill and Sealy Turner are as follows:

1. Ann - born Oct. 28, 1804, married Asa Whitlock of Charleston, S.C. on June 2, 1825. Their only child, Sarah, married a Mr. James. They had a son, La Fayette, who had two daughters and one son. One daughter, by the name of McKie, married Dave Mulcahy, a lawyer. They have two daughters. The oldest is Catherine and the name of the other and that of the son is not available. They all live in or near El Paso, Texas.
2. John - born July 20, 1806. His descendants are listed later.
3. William Turner - born Oct. 18, 1808. His descendants are listed later.
4. Martha - born Oct. 6, 1811, married Josiah Moody, a Methodist minister, December 15, 1829. No further information is available.
5. Elizabeth (Betty) - Born Feb. 23, 1814 - died unmarried at the age of 92

FOREWORD

This history of the Daughdrill family was prepared from data accumulated over a period from 1932 to 1950 from the Department of Archives, N.C., Department of Archives, Washington, D. C., Court House records at the county seat of Bertie County, N. C., Barnwell County, S. C. and other places. Grateful acknowledgement is made to the assistance of Mary Winifred White of 2601 Summerville Road, Phenix, Ala., wife of Rev. J. R. Graves White, in furnishing certain information from time to time and to my wife and other members of the family who may have supplied data.

Daughdrill (Dodrill) Family

The earliest available records of the Dodrill family are those on file in the Archives of the Historical Commission of the State of North Carolina which show that James Dodrill and John Dodrill were on the tax list of the state in 1771 and that they resided in and paid taxes in Bertie County, N. C. No records were found of any other members of the family except these two brothers. Family tradition has it that they came from Ireland and were descendants of Count Jean DeAughdrill, a Frenchman who migrated to Ireland. There is a marriage bond on file in the Archives of N.C. showing that John Dodrill married a young widow on May 1, 1778 by the name of Elizabeth Harrell and the ceremony was witnessed by his brother James. The records show that John Dodrill and his wife, by a deed dated April 23, 1791, conveyed a tract of land in Bertie County, N. C. to John Drew for 250 pounds of State of Virginia money. No record was found of the John Dodrill family after that date in N. C. It is believed that they moved to Va. as there is a record of a family by that name in Greenbrier County, Va. which later became a part of West Va. Some of the descendants now live in West Va., some in Nebraska, and some in California.

James Dodrill as shown on page 1046 of N. C. state records, enlisted in the Continental Forces on July 20, 1778 under Colonel Abraham Shepard as a private in the 10th Regiment. He was promoted to Corporal October 3, 1778. A few days before his enlistment he conveyed his whole estate to his brother John on June 2, 1778 for an consideration of his good will and affection. See Bertie County, N. C. Book M., page 368. Copy of deed is attached. Appendix No. 1.

After the Revolutionary War, James Dodrill settled in Barnwell District, S. C. where he and his wife evidently died. He died in 1806 as evidenced by old family Bible records, copy attached, appendix No. 3. He had two sons, James and John. The former was born May 14, 1779. John was younger. The exact date of his birth is unknown. The family changed the spelling of its name from Dodrill to Daughdrill sometime between the Revolutionary War and 1807. A record of real estate transfers were found in the records of Barnwell District, S. C. in the names of James and John Daughdrill in 1807. For many years thereafter branches of the family in Mississippi pronounced their name as if it were spelled "Dodrill". Family tradition has it that the name was changed from Dodrill to Daughdrill for the reason that the original name was DeAughdrill. This fact comes from disconnected branches of the family unknown to each other now living in Louisiana and Mississippi. A separate census record of the Dodrill or Daughdrill family was not made in North or South Carolina, either in 1790, the first census year or in 1800, the second census year. They evidently lived with another family at the time. The records available would indicate that they may have lived with the Zachariah Harrell family who had moved from N. C. to the Barnwell District of S. C. This family subsequently moved to Greene County, Miss.

In 1807 through a resolution of a Committee on Western Lands of the State of North Carolina, which lands later became a part of the State of Tennessee, the state of North Carolina issued to the heirs of James Dodrill, the Revolutionary soldier, a land warrant No. 152, dated December 16, 1807 for 1000 acres of land for the services of James Dodrill as a soldier in the Continental line of the State of North Carolina. This warrant was issued through a petition of David Collins, heir at law of James Dodrill. A certificate is on file in the state records from Amos Thomas of Trenton in Bertie County N. C. certifying that Wm. Skinner, Thomas Skinner and James Dodrill were soldiers with him at Trenton. Records could not be obtained to show the family connection between David Collins and James Dodrill.

Under the State of Tennessee Grant No. 3754 only 100 acres of the 1000 acres of land covered by warrant 152 were ever claimed by the Dodrill heirs. The 100 acres were conveyed to Willis Norsworthy, Assignee of the heirs of James Dodrill on February 20th, 1812, by Willie Blount, Governor of Tennessee. See book G, page 98, General Grants. This land is located in what is known as the "Big Bend" of the Tennessee River in Humphreys County, Tennessee. Copy of the conveyance to Willis Norsworthy is attached, appendix No. 2.

James Daughdrill, born May 14, 1779, married Sealy Turner on February 20, 1803 in Barnwell County, S. C. She was a daughter of William Turner who came to Barnwell County from Charleston, S. C. He died on December 20, 1807. Sealy was the executrix of his estate. An inventory of the estate was made by Noel Turner and is of record in Barnwell, S. C. Noel Turner moved to the Ala. territory near Ft. Mims about that time and in 1811 moved to Green County, Miss. on the Leaf River. He had no revolutionary war record.

In 1808 James Daughdrill accompanied by his wife and three small children his brother John left Barnwell District, S. C. to go to Tennessee to take cession of a grant of land located on the "Big Bend" of the Tennessee River which referred to above. In attempting to make his trip they had to follow Indian trails through the Alabama Territory. Due to the hostility of the Indians along their proposed route through the Alabama Territory they were compelled to abandon the journey to Tennessee and then settled near Old Fort Mims in the Alabama Territory. Fears of an attack to be made by the Indians which eventually culminated in the massacre at Fort Mims, caused the Daughdrills to move on into the Mississippi Territory. They settled about 1811 in what is now known as Green County with State Line as the Post Office. They were imbued with the same kind of pioneer spirit that made the United States what it is today. There were many difficulties that had to be overcome in an undeveloped country. Adequate transportation was an outstanding problem. They were quite patriotic and both James and John enlisted in the war of 1812 and fought with General Jackson at New Orleans. The records available show that they served in Lt. Colonel Nixon's regiment of the Mississippi Militia. From the records available it appears that they made their greatest industrial advancement in the turpentine and lumber business with transportation on the Leaf and Pascagoula Rivers. They were also engaged in farming and cattle raising. Like all other parts of the South the Daughdrill family were seriously retarded in their business and cultural development by the war between the states. The following is a record of some of the descendants of the two Daughdrill brothers.

1. James Daughdrill (No. 1 of Greene Co. Mississippi)

Daughdrill Family History

Appendix No. 4

Written in the early 1930's

Story of the Daughdrill Family as given to me by my Aunt Bettie (Elizabeth Daughdrill).

Daughdrills are one of the pioneer families of Alabama.

James Daughdrill, born May 14, 1779.

James Turner, born April 24, 1779.

James was the daughter of William Turner who died Dec. 20, 1807. All of these living in Barnwell District, South Carolina, James Daughdrill and Celia Turner married, Dec. 20, 1803.

James Daughdrill was the son of _____ Daughdrill, who with a brother _____ from Ireland, fought in the Revolutionary War and was given a "land grant" on the Tennessee River, known then as the big bend of the Tennessee River", James inheriting this land from his father, a Revolutionary soldier, started there to a possession in 1808 with his wife Celia (Turner) Daughdrill and three small children - Ann, John and William Turner. A brother John Daughdrill, affectionately known as "Uncle Jackie", with them, their way led by Indian trails, passing through Alabama, then only an Indian territory. The Indians became so threatening they stopped near Old Fort Mims.

They returned to Alabama this time (1832) settling near Old Spring Hill, entering government land, deeds signed by Martin Van Buren, then President of the U. S. There near Old Spring Hill they lived and died - substantial citizens, good Christians. James Daughdrill, Jr. was a soldier in the Civil War.

Jackie", having lost his heart to a cousin, Miss Winnie Harrell, in S.C. went back there to claim her; and brought her as a bride to his new home in Miss. To them were born two sons - James Harrell Daughdrill and Lott Daughdrill. James married Elizabeth Rawls, went to Mobile, accumulated quite a nice little fortune, had a large family of children - John, James Harrell, Jr., Cholie, Bama, Mamie, Julia and Mary.

John Daughdrill grew up and went to Texas. I know very little of his family. James Jackie had one sister, "Nancy Daughdrill", who married a Mr. Robinson, they had no children. Lived and died near their brothers, James and John on Leaf River.

10. Colin, born in 1860, married Katy Moffit of Okolona, Miss. Had two children:

Mary and Colin Gavin.

Mary married Ross D'Olive, an Electrical Engineer, associated with the large Commonwealth Edison Co. of Chicago, Ill. They have no children.

Colin, married Grace Coffin. He is an executive with the Sears Roebuck Insurance Co., All State, at Mobile, Ala. They have three boys: Curtis Ross, Douglas Colin and Stanley Morris.

(A) James Harold Daughdrill, whose descendants are detailed in the foregoing, moved to Mobile, Ala., from Greene County Mississippi in the early days and accumulated considerable wealth consisting of property in Mobile and in North Alabama near Gadsden ~~there~~, where he had large interests in Iron Ore Foundries; also a shipping business on the Alabama and Warrior Rivers. Family tradition tells us that practically all of his holdings were lost as a result of the Civil War between the States. It is said that even today there is property in his name recorded on the books at Mobile, Ala., held by others; title to which has never been fully cleared. He was married a second time after Elizabeth Rawls died in 1876. His second wife's name is unknown. ~~had~~ two sons: Claude and Stephen. These boys married, but the history of their families ~~lives~~ is not available. here
